

Artificial Intelligence

Artificial Intelligence (AI) is the simulation of human intelligence by machines.

Machine Learning is a subset of AI that learns from data.

Deep Learning uses neural networks with multiple layers.

Applications include healthcare, finance, education, autonomous vehicles and chatbots.

Advantages include automation, improved accuracy and faster decision making.

Challenges include bias, privacy, ethics and high computational cost.

Future trends include generative AI, robotics and explainable AI.